

Ancient Bengal

Many great dynasties have ruled Bengal.

Gupta

Gupta empire located in some parts of northern and central and western India.

Their time period was from the 4th century till the end of the 6th century.

Chandra Gupta I is known as the main founder of the Gupta dynasty. He assumed the title of Maharajadhiraja. Bihar and a part of Bengal and Uttar Pradesh,

Allahabad were included in his empire.

He started gold coins. Samudra Gupta possessed not only a powerful army but also a strong navy. Nalanda University was established by Kumaragupta of the Gupta dynasty.

Palas

Pala' king means protector. They Ruled for 400 years (Mid 8th - late 11th century). They were followers of Buddhism. Gopala was the founder. Well-designed structure spanning from the center to the rural areas, long list of state officials, policy of public welfare, religious toleration as the state policy all prevailed during this period. ~~Palas~~ ~~Their~~ ~~contri~~ They also contributed in spread of Buddhism, education, Terracotta and sculpture, literature. Madanapala was the last contributor from Palas.

Sena

The Sena Empire ruled through the 11th and early 13th centuries. They covered north-eastern region of the Indian subcontinent..

Samantha Sena was the founder of the dynasty. They contributed in literature, Religion.

Lakshamana Sena was the last contributor.